

CASE STUDY PCI Professional (PCIP) Training

THE COMPANY

Excentus Corporation

14241 Dallas Parkway, Suite 1200
Dallas, TX 75254

Excentus Corporation is the leading provider of loyalty marketing programs and services that utilize cents per gallon fuel savings as the ultimate consumer reward - and holds nine patents on the associated technology for the Fuel Rewards Network.

THE PRACTITIONER

Randy Braatz

- Information Security Manager
- Less than 1 year in current position (12 years with the company)

Randy started out developing PA-DSS compliant POS systems for commercial and high volume retailers. As part of Excentus' commitment to security and privacy of member data, Randy was given the opportunity to develop the Information Security Office and formalize security policies, procedures, and processes while guiding the company through the requirements for PCI DSS compliance.

THE OUTCOME

The training around network configuration and monitoring requirements provided an immediate benefit in helping to implement new systems appropriately.

Real Experience. Real Benefits.

No one tells our story better than our training participants themselves. Here's what Randy had to say...

Why did you choose to get training through the Council?

I felt that getting PCIP training directly from the experts who created the standards would not only expand my current PA-DSS knowledge, but also help me attain a thorough knowledge and understanding of the PCI DSS.

How does this training benefit you – and your company?

The company launched a new program which was the driving factor for creating our Information Security Office - and for developing a plan for becoming PCI DSS compliant. The PCIP training has prepared me to define processes for performing internal security assessments and to work with QSAs to assess our corporate systems which must meet industry compliance requirements.

The PCIP qualification along with demonstrating the applied knowledge gained from the training course, positions me for continued growth. As an early adopter of the PCIP qualification, it helps to set a standard and define baseline requirements for future team members as we develop and grow the Information Security Office.

How have you applied what you learned in this course, in your job?

In scoping our PCI DSS assessment, I've been able to apply what I learned in multiple ways, including: preparing a presentation for developers on PCI requirements and OWSAP, developing our Incident Response Plan, implementing daily review of IDS and log management systems, assessing our firewall and related systems configurations, and developing our security awareness program, to name a few.

How do others view your new PCIP status?

My PCIP qualification clearly identifies me as someone within the company who is knowledgeable in PCI requirements. My department is new to the organization and as a result, there was a significant change in my involvement with various teams. Being able to clearly and confidently communicate (and educate) the PCI Standards has enabled our internal teams to be more productive.

If you had to pick one best thing about your training, what would it be?

The Crazy Chicken Case Study was great! It really helped me to transition my thinking from a focused POS perspective to a broader enterprise perspective.

Maximize Knowledge.
Minimize Risk.
